PRITCHETT'S merger integration

5-day certification workshop

Mergers typically involve restructuring ... a culture clash ... heavy-duty management changes ... downsizing of some sort ... major reworking of systems ... and more. An integration is a very complex undertaking. Just winging any phase of the process is reckless. Organizations invite chaos if they attempt to merge without a field-tested, well-defined methodology.

In our five-day program, participants learn PRITCHETT's proven step-by-step approach for planning and running fast, effective integrations. Our methodology is neither overly simple nor complex. It is precisely what acquirers need to minimize risks and optimize results.

- INADEQUATE M&A Methodology
 - Improvised; ad hoc
 - Unstructured
 - Inconsistent
 - Not repeatable
 - Haphazard
 - Fails to capture lessons

- PRITCHETT M&A Methodology
 - Surgically precise
 - Fast, flexible, adaptable
 - Understandable
 - Easy to maintain
 - Efficient knowledge transfer
 - Skills focused

- OVERLY COMPLEX M&A Methodology
 - Sluggish and unwieldy
 - Unusable
 - Not maintainable
 - Cookbook oriented
 - Not realistic
 - Excessive training required

Many methodologies are only a hodgepodge of templates, techniques, theories, and rules of thumb cobbled together in an ad hoc fashion. They do not form a coherent whole. You can't see how everything fits together naturally. There is no logical flow.

PRITCHETT's methodology is easy to follow and well organized. It's a streamlined, repeatable process not weighed down by extraneous junk. We made room for more of what matters by eliminating what doesn't. We've included only the very best, best practices.

[*The Merger Integration Certification
Workshop is Unique and Powerful.*]

1. Rock-Solid

Time is money—acquirers must operate fast or fail. Of course, raw speed is not enough to guarantee success. Integrating badly at a high velocity is as big a mistake as moving slowly in hopes of avoiding error.

The secret is to move more rapidly—to accelerate hard—but to have the right touch at the wheel. Speed is an essential element in the right integration approach ... it's just not enough by itself. Our training provides the additional ground rules that position acquirers for success. We cover the concrete principles that collectively are the foundation of our proven trademarked M&A integration methodology.

2. Proven

We teach a methodology which has an authentic quality that comes from surviving trial by fire. PRITCHETT's approach has been developed in the trenches on clients' integrations for over three decades. Countless merging companies have used our integration process to successfully mobilize their teams across functions, locations, and cultures.

3. Efficient

We cut through theoretical bull, popular misconceptions, and wishful thinking on cultural integration. Culture change is arguably the most misunderstood, mismanaged area of M&A. Merging companies frequently waste money and time analyzing cultural differences that are benign and not worthy of investigation.

PRITCHETT's methodology identifies the few cultural traits that carry enough voltage to impact the bottom line. Our workshop teaches how to zero in on the mission critical variances and make the necessary cultural shifts while also maintaining focus on other integration priorities.

4. Practical

Our training has no mushy theory. No time-wasting trivia. No touchy-feely stuff. We teach participants how to create the deliverables for an integration, who should create them, and when. And we include useful tools and down-to-earth, real-life examples.

5. Focused

In the name of getting everything done, merging companies often overextend and dilute their resources. Our training teaches participants how to ruthlessly prioritize and scale back the workload so more of what is truly pivotal can be accomplished.

Usually, only a handful of things in an integration will deliver a huge payback. A targeted, sustained focus on these areas, the value drivers, provides the greatest chance of delivering the right outcomes on time, within budget, and without burning people out.

6. User-friendly

Integration methodologies advocated by some M&A advisors include complicated rules that create confusion and add no value. In some cases, acquirers feel compelled to hire consultants on an ongoing basis to navigate the very complexity built into the process by the same consultants. An effective methodology should make an organization more self-sufficient, less consultant dependent.

PRITCHETT's approach is highly teachable. Not over-engineered. A person needs common sense and resolve, not an advanced physics degree, to understand and apply it.

7. Comprehensive

The yin-yang symbol represents the ancient Chinese understanding of how things work. In the context of merger integration, think of the white area (yang) as the “hard stuff” and the black area (yin) as the “soft stuff.” Yang is project management, yin is people management.

Unlike other integration workshops that take a piecemeal approach, PRITCHETT's program covers both the yin and yang. Too often, merging organizations concentrate too heavily on one at the expense of the other. Both project and people management require adequate attention in order to realize the full potential of an acquisition.

The Yin-Yang of M&A Integration

Project Management Focus is on structure, order, and control—e.g., planning, accountabilities, organization charts, integration velocity, timelines, flow charts, process, etc.	People Management Focus is on the psychological, social, political, and cultural issues in play that represent critical risk factors
Involves administrative, operational, and technical matters	Involves reaction to uncertainty and organizational change
Concerned with the physical aspects of consolidating two organizations—e.g., technology, facilities, accounts, products, systems, equipment, etc.	Concerned with the intangibles, emotions, and atmospherics involved in consolidating two organizations—e.g., personal and cultural matters such as egos, ambitions, expectations, roles, power, status, values, beliefs, traditions, taboos, habits, etc.
Methodology-oriented ; procedural, systematic, and analytical; logical, practical, and by-the-numbers	Attitudinal/behavioral-oriented ; fluid, dynamic, and nonlinear; highly-charged; combustible; many trigger points

Project Management + People Management
Both require adequate attention in order to realize the full potential of an acquisition.

8. Designed and Delivered by the Thought Leaders

PRITCHETT consultants—designers and instructors of the workshop—have:

- Consulted on many of the largest, most successful merger integrations in history
- Specialized in post-merger consulting for more than 30 years—longer than any other U.S. firm
- Developed the #1 online resource for merger integration professionals, MergerIntegration.com
- Sold our merger and cultural integration books to more than 10,000 merging organizations
- Trained over 30,000 managers in M&A integration—more than any other firm

9. Grounded in Reality

Companies often struggle through integrations because managers have been taught little about the process or, even worse, have been taught the wrong things. Many of the correct moves are not obvious.

The workshop offers counterintuitive guidelines that you are unlikely to learn anywhere else ... except by painful trial and error.

Attendees will learn why acquirers should NOT:

- Strive for a “zero defects” merger
- Improve things for improvement’s sake
- Begin the integration with only a high-level plan
- Rely exclusively on a homegrown methodology
- Make “quid pro quo” staffing decisions
- Treat morale as a top priority
- Try to build a common corporate culture
- Ignore lessons learned by other companies

The logo features the letters 'M', '&', and 'A' in a large, bold, orange font. The ampersand is a light gray color and is positioned between the 'M' and 'A'. Below this, the word 'integration' is written in a smaller, lowercase, orange font.

More Valuable Takeaways

- M&A Integration Books

PRITCHETT has sold over 2 million books on merger and cultural integration—more than all other authors combined. Each attendee will receive these titles:

- Integration Planning Software

Each participant will receive free online access (for one year) to PRITCHETT's eMerger software ($4,995 value). eMerger is packed with more than 80 integration tools, templates, checklists, matrices, and examples of actual task force deliverables. eMerger helps teams produce work in consistent formats. This consistency facilitates the roll-up of data so more informed, quicker decisions can be made.

- Certification

Participants who pass PRITCHETT's exam will receive the Certified M&A Integration credential. The CM&AI designation signifies you have taken the most in-depth course available on merger integration, mastered the content, learned a world-class methodology, and developed a core competence in acquisition integration. The only accreditation for M&A integration professionals is the CM&AI.

CM&AI

Attendees will:

PRITCHETT's Merger Integration Certification Workshop

“COMMENTS from ATTENDEES”

*“The workshop is the most impactful and organized workshop that I have ever attended.
Thank you to all involved who made this an amazing learning experience!”*

— Tyra Bremer, Associate Vice President, Service King

“Fantastic workshop. Engaging and energizing. I learned a lot and had great fun.”

— Deborah Carpe, Senior Manager, Halliburton

“The instructor had written books and been through many integrations himself. Anytime the class had a question, he was able to speak from relevant real-world experience. The information was highly relevant to the group and the pace worked well.”

— Mark Hacking, Project Coordinator, IMT

“Simply remarkable. You can't capture the experience in the room in any book purchased off the shelf.”

— Sandy Ferguson, CFO, United Communities Credit Union

“The workshop is everything I never knew I always needed to know about merger integration.”

— Brad Weatherly, HR Project Leader, Alcon

“Excellent coverage of the topic with real-world tools and advice.”

— Tom Hughes, VP Clinical Support Services, Women & Infants Hospital

“All the information is so valuable. I'm excited to integrate these ideas into my company ... they (my colleagues) too will be energized by it.”

— Bryanne Halfhill, Director of Outpatient Services, Blue Sky Therapy

“Great conference. Insightful.”

— Dana Webb, Director, PeaceHealth

“Very good presenters with deep knowledge and experience on M&A.”

— Jörg Riede, Finance Director, Radiometer

“PRITCHETT's content and instructors are best-in-class and provide order and structure to a chaotic and anxious challenge (mergers). I am recommending this course to others.”

— Erin Flanigan, VP of Human Resources, Wentworth-Douglas Hospital

*“Well done! Great people and great facilitators willing to share true real life stories.
It helped me connect with the content.”*

— Natalie Jackobe, AVP Integration Manager, US Bank

“Great focus on high-impact areas for M&A. Well prepared and experienced instructors highlighted the key concepts.”

— Jason Kneen, Engineering Manager, Integration Processes, Stryker Instruments

“Great class. Pace was just right. Will help me with M&A and my other programs.”

— Corrinne Hasstedt, Senior Program Manager, General Dynamics AIS

“A very good presentation of all integration-related challenges and potential solutions.”
